International Masters Programme in Waldorf Education

A fully accredited Master of Arts Programme for Steiner School class and subject teachers will be offered in English for the first time at the Freie Hochschule in Stuttgart, Germany.

The Freie Hochschule Stuttgart/Seminar für Waldorfpädagogik is the oldest and largest Steiner teacher-training institute in the world and has been successfully training Waldorf teachers since 1928.

In a full-time course of studies, core elements of Anthroposophy, pedagogical anthropology, child and adolescent psychology and subject methodology are combined with an intensive artistic training in music, speech, Eurythmy, painting, drawing and sculpting. In conjunction with practical experience gained in long-term internships (which will generally take place in the U.K.), this training thus offers extensive possibilities for a teacher’s personal and professional development. The course is a graduate course and is concluded with a Master’s Thesis.

- Admission Requirements
  A Bachelor’s Degree or the equivalent in a field related to a school subject.

- Faculty members
  Prof. Erik Dom, Prof. Dr. Christoph Jaffke, Prof. Dr. Peter Lutzker, Prof. Stephan Ronner, Prof. Dr. Tomáš Zdražil

- Guest instructors:
  Dr. Peter Guttenhöfer, Sarah Kane, Florian Osswald, Dr. Markus Osterrieder, Martyn Rawson, Claus-Peter Röh, Christof Wiechert, Dorit Winter
Expertise in subject areas
A further key element of the Masters courses for class teachers is an extensive training in the methodology and didactics of their chosen subject. Currently, studies in foreign languages, fine arts, handicrafts, crafts, physical education and music are possible.

Length of course
If prerequisites are met, the course can be completed in 18 months. In exceptional cases - which include extensive previous Waldorf training and sufficient teaching experience - it may be possible to complete the course in one year.

Course schedule
The first course begins in February, 2015 and it will conclude in July, 2016. For those applicants who do not have the full qualifications for the 18 month course, it may be possible to attain these qualifications by starting in September, 2014.
